The advertisement on the wrapper of this Number will explain the other particulars. It is but justice to add to this account, that the Joint-Secretaries, J. Goddard, Esq. and the Rev. J. Jones, evince an indefatigable zeal in promoting the patriotic objects of this institution, and in which they appear to be very ably supported by the nobility and gentry of that portion of the Principality.

Mr. Parry, editor of "Welsh Melodies," and the Editor of the CAMBRO-BRITON have been elected honorary members of this Society. The former gentleman is to conduct the musical department at the ensuing EISTEDDFOD: and from the able and unremitting exertions, which he made last year at Wrexham, there is every reason to anticipate the most beneficial result from his co-operation on the present occasion. And it may also be hoped, that the national spirit, which now seems to pervade every part of the Principality, aided by the patriotic activity of the gentlemen in Gwynedd, will cause the Carnarvon Eisteddfod to rival in interest either of the similar meetings, that have preceded it. *.
